Before celluloid : The stroboscopic animation principle was introduced in 1833 with the phénakistiscope and also applied in the zoetrope since 1866, the flip book since 1868, and the praxinoscope since 1877, before it became the basic principle for cinematography. Experiments with early phenakistiscope-based animation projectors were made at least as early as 1843. Jules Duboscq marketed phénakistiscope projection systems in France between 1853 and the 1890s.

Various New Wave movements including the French New Wave, Indian New Wave, Japanese New Wave, and New Hollywood and the rise of film-school-educated independent filmmakers contributed to the changes the medium experienced in the latter half of the 20th century. Digital technology has been the driving force for change throughout the 1990s and into the 2000s. Digital 3D projection largely replaced earlier problem-prone 3D film systems and has become popular in the early 2010s.citation needed
